Day : 2 Excursion to Cherrapunjee 70 kms / 3 hrs.

The locals traditionally call it Sohra, however, the world knows it by the more popular name of "Cherrapunjee" or "Cherrapunji". Once the wettest place on earth, Cherrapunjee today is the second rainiest place on earth after Mawsynram. Cherrapunji attracts lot of tourists because of its abundant natural beauty, package of valleys and waterfalls, caves and canyons, evergreen misty landscapes and heavy rains. Cherrapunji is a must visit destination known for its varieties of cloud formations and quick change of weather fair to foul and vice versa, lush green plains, numerous waterfalls and a trek to the single and double decker root bridges. The trek from Cherrapunjee to the living root bridges is not for the faint heart as it requires a lot of stamina and grit to trek down to these natural wonders of nature. Cherrapunji offers many magical charms to enthrall visitors. Nature lovers can experience amazing caves, natural trails and unique natural phenomenon of interwined root bridges. The journey to Cherrapunji is in itself an experience worth savouring.

Gushing waterfalls, foggy mountains and roads, dense equatorial type vegetation add to the beauty of Sohra. A visit to Sohra is a walk in the clouds, a wisp of imagination and raindrops on your cheek, a place where clouds and rain play in their own time wrap.

After early breakfast drive to Cherrapunjee (4,400 ft.), the wettest place in the world. You will see the beautiful waterfall known as Nohkalikai. You can also explore the caves known as Mawsmai.

Evening return to Shillong, en route visit Elephanta falls and Shillong peak for some breathtaking views.

Day : 3 Shillong To Dawki Root Bridge (120 kms 8 hrs) Dawki Place, Lake, Mawlynong

Dawki is a border town between India and Bangladesh, located graciously in the Jaintia Hills of the north eastern state of Meghalaya. It is also known by a few people as Dauki. The greenery of the hills around, the crystal clear water of the Umngot river and the purity of the environment overall will make you fall in love with Dawki. Dawki can be visited throughout the year. The summer and spring are the best. Looking down from the Dawki bridge suspension we can see the pebbles and stones through the lush blue green fresh water. It is also a major center of trade between India and Bangladesh. Dawki-Tamabil is one of the few road border crossings between India and Bangladesh which is mainly used for coal transportation to Bangladesh and also other places of India. The crystal clear Umngot River of Dawki is a major attraction that marks the natural separation between the Khasi and Jaintia Hills.

Acres of greenery surround the village and orchids and other flowers stun viewers with their abundance. Almost 90 houses exist in the clean little village and almost all the residents are uniformly charming and friendly. Villagers have decorated their village prettily with natural stone statuettes, creepers and shrubs. cleanliness is embraced as a way of life there. At every cornerstone of the village roads, you will find beautiful bamboo dustbins and everything including the dry leaves from trees are picked up and thrown there. No plastic bags are in sight and no one is allowed to smoke. India Beacons salutes to the 'spirit of cleanliness' exhibited by the villagers through their self sustained efforts.

After breakfast proceed for full day local sightseeing going to Dawki Root Bridge.

Day : 6 Guwahati Local Sightseeing- Departure

The gateway to the northeast and the largest and most cosmopolitan city in the region, Guwahati serves as the starting block for the other seven sisters locations . This featureless city – a prosaic heap of glass and concrete for the most part – is a blend of old and new sights but there are a scattering of interesting temples to explore, when it comes to tourist places in Guwahati. Walk its back alleys and old quarters to click some timeless picture and you will be able to salvage a generous amount of local flavour that lingers amid its suburban sprawl of ponds, palm trees, small single-storey traditional houses and old colonial-era mansions. It is located on the south bank of the river Brahmaputra and is the largest city of Assam and Northeast. The place has many ancient temples and is also known as the 'city of temples' in Northeast India. The British legacy is still visible in the architecture and food habits of the population. Northeast is a hidden treasure of India and if you really want to explore the best of India then do not miss this region with exceptional vistas, phenomenal cultural differences in each state and a the unaltered Himalayas with some of the highest peaks in the world. The tourist places in Guwahati are indeed is a place for every traveling soul to visit once.

Early morning after breakfast visit Kamakhya Temple, Tirupati Balaji Temple, Nabagraha Temple, Assam State Museum, State Zoo cum Botanical Garden, Regional Science Centre and Sukreswar Temple (The 6th Jyotirlinga of Shiva).

After that transfer to airport for your onward journey. Tour is end with sweet memories.
